A man's career usually progresses in direct proportion to the loss of his hair.

Unknown

The joy is in creating, not in maintaining.

Vince Lombardi

Every artist, scientist, and philosopher in the history of mankind has pointed to the laws of nature as his greatest inspiration. Without the presence of nature undisturbed, there would have been no Leonardo, no Ruskin, no Nervi, no Frank Lloyd Wright. In destroying our landscape we are destroying the future of civilization in America.

Peter Blake

If the position will not reflect glory on me, I will reflect glory on the work.

Epaminondas

People can be divided into three groups: those who make things happen, those who watch things happen, and then those who wonder what happened.

John Newbern

If you tell a man there are 400 billion stars in the universe he'll believe you. But if you tell him a bench has just been painted, he has to touch it to be sure.

Anonymous

To contrive is nothing; to construct is something; to produce is everything!

Eddie Rickenbacker

The work of an unknown good man is like a vein of water flowing hidden underground, secretly making the earth greener.

Thomas Carlyle

There is certainly no purpose in remaining in the dark Except long enough to clear from the mind The illusion of having ever been in the light.

T. S. Eliot

Those who can, do; those who can't, teach; those who can't teach, criticize.

Unknown

I am a great believer in luck, and I find the harder I work the more I have of it.

Stephen Leacock

Measure twice and saw once.

An old carpenter

People who want milk should not seat themselves on a stool in the middle of a field in hopes that a cow will back up to them.

Elbert Hubbard

Success isn't how far you've gotten, but how far you've traveled from where you started.

Unknown

Och, but I was dumb to see nothing of the light that was now...

Maurice O'Sullivan

Few things in life are as important as pride of craftsmanship, at whatever level it may occur; the pride in a job well done, the feeling of having a horse one can ride.

Brooke Allen

When a top executive is selecting his key associates there are only two qualities for which he should be willing to pay almost any price: taste and judgment. Almost everything else may be bought by the yard.

John W. Gardner

We will make the electric light so cheap that only the rich will be able to burn candles.

Thomas Edison

Nature has everywhere written her protest against idleness; everything which ceases to struggle, which remains inactive, rapidly deteriorates. It is the struggle towards an ideal, the constant effort to get higher and further, which develops manhood and character.

Alfred A. Montapert
